Extended Stay Hotels and RV Park in the Tahoe-Reno Industrial Center Play a Key Role in Reducing Traffic and Providing Essential Temporary Housing Solutions

Storey County, NV—The Tahoe-Reno Industrial Center (TRI-Center) is proud to highlight the positive impact of its extended stay hotels and RV park in addressing the growing need for temporary housing solutions, while also contributing to the reduction of traffic congestion on Interstate 80. Currently, the TRI-Center offers 250 hotel rooms and 150 RV spaces, with an additional 250 to 350 hotel rooms in the planning stages. As the area continues to develop and attract businesses and workers, these accommodations provide crucial support for employees, contractors, and visitors to the region.

The extended stay hotels and RV park offer the convenience and flexibility needed by professionals working on short-term assignments or those transitioning to permanent residences in the area. This reduces the number of vehicles traveling daily between the industrial center and neighboring communities, helping to ease overall traffic congestion on I-80 and other key routes in the region.

“The extended stay hotels and RV park in the TRI-Center are essential assets for the community and local businesses,” said Austin Osborne, Storey County Manager. “They not only provide a comfortable and affordable living space for those who need temporary accommodations but also help to reduce traffic, emissions, and travel times, making the entire area more efficient.”

The strategic placement of these facilities within the TRI-Center enhances the overall convenience for businesses, enabling their workforce to stay nearby and access their job sites with ease.

As TRI-Center continues to expand and welcome new industries, the availability of varied and flexible housing options remains crucial to supporting the region’s growth and ensuring a seamless experience for those contributing to the area's development. This phase is the first of several aligning with Storey County's vision and plan for permanent and sustainable housing growth, ensuring long-term support for businesses, workers, and the community.
